

Exhibition Update from Siemens – latest generation Simatic S7

Siemens will be demonstrating its latest generation Simatic S7-1500 controllers for medium to high-end machine and plant automation which has been developed for use with the latest version of the company's Totally Integrated Automation Portal (TIA Portal) engineering framework. New functions of this latest controller include extended safety functionality and expanded PROFINET communication performance.

Siemens Industry Automation Division has also expanded its Simatic ET200 distributed I/O product family with a new generation of devices which will also be at our event.